Our Top 10 Tips for Event Fundraising:

1. Ask everyone!

Even if you don't know someone particularly well, if you are working hard for a good cause, they may be willing to help. They might not give very much, but small donations soon add up. Family, friends and colleagues are an obvious first port of call, but what about business associates in other companies, friends of friends, or local companies? Facebook and Twitter are great ways of contacting people, thanking them for their support and keeping them up to date with your progress.

2. Start early...

...and start with those who can give you the most – this will get your fundraising off to a really good start and encourage other people to give generously.

3. Make a plan

Plan how you will reach your fundraising target and break it down into manageable chunks. Often this will involve a combination of donations from friends and family and fundraising events such as those suggested in the fundraising A-Z.

4. Make it easy

Using a giving platform such as Just Giving for online sponsorship pages is a very easy and effective way to fundraise. You can email a link to colleagues, friends and family, and they can give online at the touch of a button. You can also encourage people to visit your giving site by using Facebook or Twitter. Research suggests that people are considerably more generous making a donation online than when they do it on paper, giving an average of £27 online as opposed to £7.50 on paper!

5. Ask your employer to match what you raise from sponsorship

Many companies are willing to match their employee's efforts. They may match the sponsorship you raise up to a pre-determined maximum amount.

6. Explain who Emmaus are and why YOU are raising money for us!

Do get in touch for more information about Emmaus and case studies of companions who have been helped by living in Emmaus communities. If people can see the difference they will make, they will be inspired to give generously. Do you have a personal connection to Emmaus?

7. Give it the personal touch

Update your sponsorship page regularly with news of your progress, tell people about your training regime, explain why you are enthusiastic about Emmaus. Again, social networking sites are great ways to do this and to encourage people to visit your giving page - #getfundraising!

8. Get your friends and family involved

See if your friends or family would be prepared to fundraise on your behalf. This can really broaden the net of people who might sponsor you. Think about whether anyone you know may be prepared to help by donating a venue for a fundraising event; offering a skill in return for donations (cooking, gardening, teaching, DIY etc.); or giving gifts or prizes for car-boot sales, raffles or auctions. You might be surprised by who wants to help!

9. Try to get donations not pledges

This way you will only have to chase the money once, rather than asking for a pledge and then following it up later.

10. Chase people up... (Then chase again...)

As the big date approaches, remind those people who haven't yet sponsored you that they still can. And even after the race it's not too late to get in a few last minute donations.

And finally...

don't forget to thank all those who donate, or who give their time, gifts or prizes to help you fundraise.
